

M'GARRY'S DIVORCE SUIT.

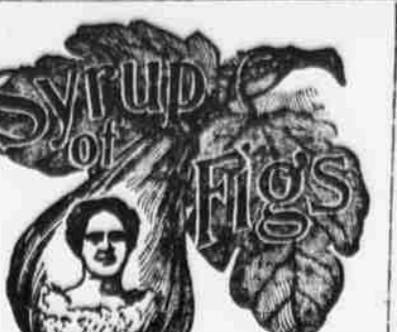

AN HOTEL MAN AND EX-CHIEF NEVINS CO-RESPONDENTS.

The Complainant a Saloon Keeper, Related to Testis Ward—Democratic Leaders—Mrs. McGarry in Oklahoma Also Seeking a Divorce—Details by the Accused Men.

Michael McGarry, the owner of a saloon and beer bottling establishment at 416 Del Kalb avenue, has been called for trial in divorce suit against Mary McElroy in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn, and yesterday, on application of Lawyer J. Granian McMahon, Justice Osborne granted permission for the service of the summons and complaint by publication. Mr. McMahon explained that since the separation of the couple the wife had settled in Oklahoma Territory and commenced divorce proceedings on the ground that her husband was an habitual drunkard.

The scandal involves two well-known Brooklyn men, Thomas F. Nevin, the former Chief Engineer of the First Department and long prominent in Democratic politics, and Col. William Tumbridge, the proprietor of the Hotel St. George, each of whom is named as a co-respondent. The McGarrys were married on Feb. 14, 1893, a few months after the bride had graduated from one of the public schools. Within a year there was a separation, and Mrs. McGarry returned to her father, Mr. Gurtz of 625 Lafayette avenue. There was a reconciliation, and the couple lived together until the close of last year, when the husband declared his desire to have his wife divorced. He alights that during the month of November, 1895, the improper acts complained of occurred with Mr. Nevin at the Arlington Hotel, and with Col. Tumbridge at room A in his hotel. Louis Jackson is also named as a co-respondent, and is alleged to have met Mrs. McGarry at 308 Washington street.

Mr. Nevin expressed surprise when notified of the proceeding. He said he is not a party to it, for any such allegation is far as he knows, that he is holding me responsible for the war in Cuba. I don't know what to say about the other two, but I am sure they may be recommended in the event of a divorce, but if I am not in a position to give them the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constituted condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health.

In the enjoyment of the best, start it in time, remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If any ill will not act as disease, it may be recommended in the event of a laxative, when one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

Lillian H. Rodgers Made Receiver of the Hotel Balmoral Partnership.

Lillian H. Rodgers was appointed receiver yesterday for the firm of Rodgers & Co., lessees of the Hotel Balmoral, Lenox avenue, and 113th and 114th streets on the corner of Lenox and 113th, brought against J. Lanigan, Rodgers, general partner, and Gerard Nelson Whitney, special partner. She is the wife of James H. Rodgers, formerly of the Coleman House, who died on March 10, 1895.

Mr. McGarry has also threatened to sue Mr. Brewster for damages for or on account of alienation of his wife's affections. He is related to the McGarry brothers, the Democratic chieftains in the Tenth ward.

WOMEN FIGHT IN CENTRAL PARK.

Mrs. Brewster Angry When She Found an Artist's Model with Her Husband.

Mrs. Mary Brewster, 20 years old, of 364 West Twelfth street, and Sadie Simmons, aged 22, of 342 West Forty-eighth street, were charged before Magistrate Brann in the Yorkville Police Court yesterday with loitering in Central Park on Sunday. Mrs. Brewster has a husband, Miss Simmons sometimes poses as a model for artists. Until Sunday neither of the women knew of the other's existence. Shortly after 9 P.M., Mrs. Brewster, while returning from a walk in the Park, saw a young man and a woman sitting on a bench on the promenade opposite the West Sixty-fourth street entrance to the Park. Something about the man attracted Mrs. Brewster's attention, and she stopped and watched the couple for a minute. Then she went over to the bench and tapped the young man on the shoulder.

"What are you?" said she. "I want you to come with me." Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."

Her husband was so astonished that he only stared stupidly from his companion to his wife.

"Leave that brazen woman alone and come home at once," added Mrs. Brewster.

That was too much for Miss Simmons, and she sprang up and ran away. Mrs. Brewster, however, who was then about to interrupt a pleasant afternoon tête-à-tête,

then ran after her, and when she had caught up with her, she said, "I want you to come with me."